The Three Principles

Outline

The Government of Japan has been dealing carefully with arms exports in accordance with the policy guideline named the Three Principles on Arms Exports (hereinafter referred to as "the Three Principles") in order to avoid any possible aggravation of international conflicts.

Under the Three principles, arms exports to the following countries or regions shall not be permitted:

- (1) communist bloc countries;
- (2) countries subject to arms exports embargo under the United Nations Security Council's resolutions; and
- (3) countries involved in or likely to be involved in international conflicts.

The Three Principles have been the basic policy for Japan's arms exports since they were declared in the 1967 Diet session.

Subsequently, in February 1976, the Government of Japan announced the collateral policy guideline according to which arms exports to other areas not included in the Three Principles will also be restrained, in conformity with Japan's position as a peaceful nation. In other words, the collateral policy guideline declared that the Government of Japan shall not promote arms exports, regardless of the destinations.
