Information to the armed forces, including the extent to which the CCW and its Protocols are part of military manuals and the training curriculum of its armed forces:

The Australian Defence Force (ADF) has developed and implemented specific policy and procedures to comply with the CCW and its annexed Protocols. For example, the 'Land Warfare Procedures - General 3-6-5, 30 November 2007' provides commanders and staff with current policy on landmines, booby traps and improvised explosive devices and its application to military operations. More generally, all ADF members are trained in the Law of Armed Conflict, which includes education on prohibited weapons and the limitations on the use of lawful weapons (Chapter 4 - Australian Defence Doctrine Publication 06.4 Law of Armed Conflict, May 2006). In addition, Defence Instructions (General) Operations 44-1 dated 2 June 2005, alerts all Department of Defence personnel of the requirement to submit for Legal Review - in the initial planning phases - all proposed new weapons in order to determine whether the new weapons, or their intended use in combat, are consistent with the obligations assumed by the Australian Government under applicable treaties to which Australia is a party, and with customary international law.
